ABOUT THE ORGANISERS

ESACH – European Students’ Association for Cultural Heritage is an inter-university and cross-border network whose main objective is the interdisciplinary collaboration among European university students and young professionals in the field of Cultural Heritage. Inspired by the announcement of the European Year of Cultural Heritage, ESACH was established in 2017 thanks to an idea of a group of students at the University of Passau, and today has become an interdisciplinary and crossgenerational network in the field of Cultural Heritage at European Universities. ESACH’s statement is to contribute to a more conscious sense of belonging to the European community, towards the reconnection of the concepts of Culture and Heritage as a stimulus for contemporary developments. The current Complutense University of Madrid was founded by Cardinal Cisneros as a result of the “Inter cetera” Papal Bull granted by Pope Alexander VI on 13 April 1499. This Papal Bull provided the Cardinal with the power to found and construct a College of Scholars located in Alcalá de Henares.

After several ups and downs at the University located in Alcalá, in 1821, the Central University of Madrid was created and absorbed the University located in Alcalá, eliminated a year later.

The construction of the Ciudad Universitaria (University City) acted as a good reason for modernising the Central University in the early 20th century. The project got started in the spring of 1929 under the auspices of Alfonso XIII.

During the Spanish Civil War, the campus served as one of the main war fronts, which disrupted and made the daily academic activity impossible. The campus was mostly destroyed.

Under the Law of Education of 1970, the University of Madrid became known as Universidad Complutense de Madrid (Complutense University of Madrid) and adopted its first effective statutes. After the death of Franco, the implementation of the Constitution and subsequent consolidation of democracy led to a new legal framework for institutions of higher education. Since then the UCM has not stopped growing. The entire campus is protected as Cultural Heritage. www.ucm.es/english
